

Peace and Living Public Company Limited
Environmental Policy and Guidelines

Peace and Living Public Company Limited (the "Company") recognizes the importance of both positive and negative environmental impacts resulting from its business operations. Therefore, the Company places great emphasis on natural resource conservation and promotes the efficient use of energy and various related resources. This covers 4 key areas: energy management, water management, waste and pollution management, and greenhouse gas management, aiming to minimize the negative environmental impacts of the Company's operational processes. To achieve this, the Company has established the following policy and guidelines:

1. All construction operations of the Company shall strictly comply with the safety, occupational health, and environmental standards prescribed by relevant laws and other regulations.
2. The Company will utilize natural resources only as absolutely necessary and control resource consumption to ensure cost-effectiveness and efficiency. This applies to energy, water, and waste from both construction materials and household waste, as well as management practices aimed at mitigating greenhouse gas issues. The objective is to reduce adverse impacts on the well-being of society, the environment, and the public's quality of life.
3. The Company supports the regular organization of activities that contribute to environmental conservation to return profits to society.
4. The Company has a policy to reduce the generation of garbage and waste and cooperates in their management both in terms of proper disposal and waste sorting across offices, construction sites, and households.
5. The Company is committed to exploring various approaches to elevate the management of its business operational processes, ensuring they reduce negative impacts and become increasingly environmentally friendly.
6. The Company creates awareness and seriously and continuously instills a sense of environmental responsibility among employees at all levels. This is achieved through communication, education, and fostering understanding to encourage cooperation, leading to correct and appropriate practices that align with the Company's ongoing operations.
7. The Company supports the participation of employees and relevant parties in providing opinions and suggestions that are beneficial to the Company's resource and environmental management, in order to further develop, improve, and enhance management efficiency.

This Environmental Policy and Guidelines is effective from 13 May 2022 onwards.
